

Title

Retraction: Intensive nurse-administered disease management versus routine care in inflammatory bowel disease

Abstract

The authors have requested retraction due to identified irregularities in randomization sequence documentation at the trial recruitment center. Upon detailed review, the integrity of allocation concealment cannot be definitively confirmed. While primary outcome trends remained directionally consistent during data verification, the authors determined that withdrawal was necessary to uphold scientific rigor and publication integrity standards.